Points Of Interest

Erika and I spent most of September remodeling our basement apartment. Now we have a comfortable, private area for missionaries visiting our church to stay. Danny Mendoza, pastor at Creekmont Baptist Church in LaPorte, Texas was our first guest. He was here to preach our Missions Revival at Hillcrest Baptist Church. As our home church, they decided to focus on the missionaries that we send out. They blessed us in so many ways. They truly showed their love and support for us. Thank you to our church family for taking such great care of us.

October 4th we took a team of fifteen to Caraguatatuba, Brazil to assist Jay and Peggy Ross and their family with their school mission work and the National Kids day celebration at their church. Our church loaded us down with school supplies and craft supplies for the schools and churches. We had Bible story lessons, games and crafts. We were invited to several of their church member's home for delicious desserts and meals. We enjoyed getting to know their church family. They were all so friendly and welcoming to us. One of their church members was a sweet older woman who asked us to write something that we are thankful for and put it in her blessings jar.

I was blessed with the opportunity to preach at both Jay and Justin Ross' churches. They are both doing amazing work in Brazil. While we were there, Jay got the news that their bid on a new location for the schools was accepted. Now they are in a race to complete the remodel of the building before the end of the year. They could use some help with the remodel if anyone is interested in taking a trip to Brazil to put in some manual labor. Of course if you want to be a part of the work, but can't make the trip, they could always use your prayers and financial support for this big project.

Our team worked great together and enjoyed getting to know some new people. The Lord always blesses the work when He has willing hands and feet. Everyone should consider taking a trip to help a missionary at least once. You are really missing out on some amazing work being done for the Lord.

Please pray for our ministry. That the Lord will show us where he wants us next and will supply the funds to travel. As always, thank you for your continued prayers and support.
